MEMORANDUM FOR:

SUBJECT: An Overview of NSCIC, the NSCIC Working Group, and Other Consumer Contacts

1. NSCIC was formed in direct response to the November 1971 Presidential letter to the DCI, which stressed, among other points, that "more effective review of intelligence product quality and policy must be provided to the DCI, especially by high-level consumers of substantive national intelligence." In that spirit NSCIC convened its first meeting in December 1971 and formed a subordinate Working Group to staff out these worthy objectives.

2. The NSCIC Working Group has met 15 times since then, and a review of the minutes of these meetings shows that the Intelligence Community has not shirked its duty, in terms of suggesting topics of interest, staffing them out, and recommending ways of improvement. Indeed the Community in the person of the DCI pointed out at the initial NSCIC meeting that this was the first time the Intelligence Community had ever had any formal means of receiving the views of its principal consumers on the intelligence product. Moreover, the initiative came from the Community to reorganize the Working Group to more nearly reflect the views of the consumers--this in 1974--and also from the D/DCI/IC to transfer the chairmanship of the Working Group from himself to General Scowcroft of the NSC Staff--again better to reflect consumer views.

3. The problem is that meanwhile the voice of the high level consumers has faded away. At the first NSCIC meeting Dr. Kissinger opined that this group of senior intelligence officials should meet "at fairly lengthy intervals"; but he also went on to recommend that NSCIC then meet within two weeks, so that the members could formulate a proper list of needs, and thereafter every two months. As it turned out, NSCIC has only met one other time, in October 1974 when it approved the reconstitution of its Working Group. Repeatedly the NSCIC Working Group--more specifically, the Intelligence Community representation on it--has prepared relevant studies for NSCIC, only to have these go to waste when NSCIC failed to convene. In effect, the Working Group has become the highest collective voice of the consumers.

4. As I see it, there are two options for dealing with this situation. One is to change nothing. That is a more attractive option than it might at first appear. So long as the high level consumers continue to remain passive in the process of product review, they really cannot blame the Intelligence Community for indifference to their needs. Moreover the NSCIC Working Group, in its reconstituted form, i.e., with a consumer as chairman and with subordinate committees, now has the capability to address specific, substantive topics to a degree probably not achievable at a higher level. Also, the Community's position in this body is about right, which is to say it has limits to it; the Community is not doing all the consumers' staff work.

5. But the Working Group is not as effective as it should be, and may wither on the vine unless it gets guidance periodically from a higher level. The second option, then, is to combine NSCIC with PFIAB. Their functions overlap now, and of the two groups PFIAB appears the more energetic. If the two were made one then the NSCIC Working Group could be expanded in size to reflect the composition of the new higher body.

6. All of the foregoing can be documented at (tedious) length from PRD's files on NSCIC and the Working Group, but this is probably enough by way of an "impressionistic" appraisal. [redacted] has contributed the next paragraph on matters generally outside the NSCIC--NSCIC Working Group framework.

25X1

7. In addition to our NSCIC Working Group account, PRD establishes contacts with consumers during the course of our post-mortem (and other) investigations. The preparation of the Middle East (October 73 War) Post Mortem and the Cyprus Post Mortem, for example, involved PRD interviews with a variety of consumers in DOD, the Department of State, and the NSC Staff. We have not sought direct interviews with top people but have, when appropriate, talked to those who were familiar with the views of very senior officials. We have also, of course, elicited comments from working and middle-level consumers.

Mr. Colby:

25X1 Your expression of hope this morning that the "Knoche and [] Group" try to foment some interest in substance reminded me of a conversation I had with [] when the Murphy Commission was getting off the ground. We concluded that after all is said and done, the acid test of intelligence is the extent that it contributes to the decision-making process. Hopefully our most significant function is to help others, e.g., the White House, State, Defense, etc., reach an educated policy decision.

There are bushel baskets full of studies on procedures, prerogatives, plumbing, jurisdiction and controls. There is little on the shelf re the role of intelligence in the decision-making process from the "decider's point of view." You have undoubtedly given a great deal of thought to this dilemma. If your concern with substance rather than plumbing can translate itself into some direction for the Knoche/[] Group, it would be my guess that it might cause a healthy change in focus.

MEMORANDUM FOR

THE SECRETARY OF STATE
THE SECRETARY OF TREASURY
THE SECRETARY OF DEFENSE
THE ATTORNEY GENERAL
THE DIRECTOR, OFFICE OF MANAGEMENT AND BUDGET
THE DIRECTOR OF CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE

SUBJECT:

Organization and Management of the Foreign Intelligence Community

The President has directed that a study be made of the organization and management of the foreign intelligence community. The study should include an examination of:

- the basic structure of the community,
- key problems of organization and management,
- definition of requirements,
- systems design and selection
- resource allocation,
- guidance mechanisms,
- consumer-producer relationships, and
- relevant recommendations of the Rockefeller and Murphy Commissions.

Based upon the results of these reviews, the study should:

- evaluate the need for changes in the current organization of the foreign intelligence community,
- present options for a possible reorganization of the foreign intelligence community, and
- submit the recommendations of each addressee on the options presented.

This study will be prepared by an ad hoc group composed of representatives of the addressees and chaired by the representative of the Office of Management and Budget. The study should be completed by December 12, 1975. It will be submitted to the Intelligence Coordinating Group which was established by the President on September 19, 1975.

INTELLIGENCE ORGANIZATION GROUP

PROPOSED TASK PLAN

Study Plan: Review Foreign Intelligence Community only; counterintelligence and domestic intelligence agencies excluded

PHASE I - OBJECTIVES, NEEDS AND PROBLEM DEFINITION (Nov 20-24)

A. Study Objective.

The primary objective is to identify organizational alignments and management arrangements

- to develop and deliver the best and most timely substantive intelligence products to policy-makers and government operators,
- to insure that decisions to employ intelligence activities are proper, well considered and advised, and
- to insure that such activities, when employed, are well directed and monitored with assigned accountability.

All of this is to fall within an environment of effectiveness, efficiency and economy.

B. Current and future trends -- look ahead 5-10 years.

o Areas of greater/lesser emphasis.

- Mission area - Soviet, PRC, Europe, Middle East, Near East, Other.
- Type intelligence - military, political, economic, national vs tactical.
- Intelligence resource mix - collection, processing, production.
- Time sensitivity - e.g., six months; 1-2 weeks; less than one week.

- C. The users of foreign intelligence (after Phase II).
 - Who are they - President, agency heads, military commanders, agency staff.
 - What are their needs - today and in the future?
 - Have these needs been met in the past?
 - Performance evaluation.
 - Conduct interviews with consumers/players.
- D. Deficiencies identified in foreign intelligence.
 - Executive Branch organization.
 - Intelligence Community leadership.
 - Intra-community relationships.
 - Producer-user relations.
 - Foreign intelligence (secrecy) in a democratic society.
 - Executive/Congressional relations.

PHASE II - ORGANIZATIONAL AND MANAGEMENT PROBLEMS (Nov 24-29)

1. Executive Office (and State) supervision, coordination and control.
2. Intelligence Community Leadership.
3. Control over Community Resources.
4. Producer/consumer relationships.
5. Need for secrecy and compartmentation.
6. Protection of sources and methods.
7. Covert action.
8. Intelligence support in crisis situations.

9. Control of intelligence resources in peace-time and war-time.
10. National intelligence support for field commanders.
11. Review the Intelligence Community organization.
12. Relationship of the Intelligence Community and Congress.

PHASE III - IDENTIFICATION AND REVIEW OPTIONS (Dec 1-5)

- Evaluate need for organizational changes.
- Identify most promising options.
- Spell out the pros and cons of each option.

PHASE IV - DEVELOP FINAL REPORT (Dec 5-15)

- Dec 6 - Complete First Draft.
- Dec 9 - Complete Second Draft.
- Dec 10 - Review draft report with principals.
- Dec 12 - Final Draft for comment/mark-up.
- Dec 15 - Deliver final report.
- Dec 16 - Receive formal agency comments.

1. Executive Office and State supervision, coordination and control.
 1. How Presidential needs are currently being served.
 - Who reports to President on intelligence matters?
 - Responsibility for providing substantive intelligence unclear.
 2. Executive Branch coordination in politically sensitive areas (e.g., covert action, clandestine collection)
 3. Resource control unclear within the Executive Office.
 4. Oversight procedures must be strengthened.
 5. Role of PFIAB must be reexamined.

2. Intelligence Community Leadership

1. Identify possible options
2. Evaluate capability of various options to resolve identified problem

3. Control Over Community Resources

1. Describe and critique current resource control system
- DoD/DCI/CIA/State/Treasury
2. Resource control within the Executive Office
3. Decision-making framework emphasizes functions (input)
rather than mission product needs (output)
4. Inadequate review of balance between collection, and production.

5. Need for secrecy and compartmentation

1. Describe and critique current system
2. Must reexamine what needs to be protected
3. Is customer being served properly - objective must be to deliver needed information to customer.
4. Tendency under today's system to seal off on all sides
5. Excess emphasis on clearances which consumers do not need; other potential customers are not being served since they do not possess clearances
6. Overhead reconnaissance classification question - including possible delivery of product to outside users
7. Parallel to classification study conducted in 1971
